United Way Day of Caring scheduled in Sequoyah County

March 28, 2007 FORT SMITH, AR) — On Thursday, April 19, the United Way of Fort Smith Area will host the 14th Annual Day of Caring. This community-wide event gives individuals and company employees a chance to “adopt” volunteer projects at non-profit organizations. In addition to completing much needed work, volunteers get to see firsthand how their United Way contributions make an impact in Sequoyah County. The Day of Caring has been moved this year from August to April during National Volunteer Week.

“For years the Day of Caring was in August and the temperature was usually near the 100 degree mark. We are hoping the day will be much more comfortable for volunteers,” said Sarah Fowler, Resource Development Director, Outlying Area. “It also makes sense to have this huge volunteer event during National Volunteer Week. It’s a great way to give back to your community.”

Projects will be at Sequoyah East Nursing Center in Roland, OK, and at Boys & Girls Club of Sequoyah County in Sallisaw, OK. Volunteers will be completing a variety of activities including assembling toy shelves, painting, filing, conducting one-to-one visits and building a partition to divide an area to make it into a make-shift room

“By participating in the Day of Caring, you will spend time volunteering and see firsthand how your United Way donation provides solutions for people and improves our community,” said Fowler. “A new feature this year is the ability to register online at www.unitedwayfortsmith.org.”
